Yearbook changes

By Wendy Branstine

Several new and different things have been planned for "The Bulldog"--SWOSU's yearbook. Starting this year, the yearbook will be delivered in the Fall '91 semester rather than during the spring semester. This will allow spring activities, sports, and graduation to be included.

Also starting this year, all who order a yearbook will have their names put into a hopper. Names of ten students to be featured in the '91 Bulldog will be drawn.

Yearbooks can be ordered in the journalism room, S-117, between 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday-Friday. The cost of a yearbook is $15.00.

The yearbook staff is headed this year by Tamra Romines, editor-in-chief; Cindra Albert, copy editor; and Debbie Erwin, layout editor.

Photos will be taken Oct. 9-10 in the Sky view Room from 9-12 and 1-4.

ORGANIZATIONS:

Do you want to be recognized?

Each campus organization which is planning to be active this year is required to complete and return a current CAMPUS ORGANIZATION REPORT to Vice President Janzen's office (A103) by Sept. 28. Forms have been mailed to listed sponsors and are also available in Vice President Janzen's office.

'Not a 'Fun' summer, reports one student

By Sally Dennehy

Wouldn't you love to get paid for soaking up the summer sun? Isn't that the typical story of the nine-to-five lifeguard.

My previous summer jobs had all been a little too adventurous. I worked in a frequently held-up bank; a 100 degree Mexican restaurant's kitchen; and a recreation center for juvenile delinquents. The opportunity to work at a 3-foot junior pool sounded quite inviting.

Seeing that the pool was only 50-yards long, and I was two and one-half feet taller than the pool, this lifeguard job appeared to be a piece of cake.

The first week went by pretty well. I had started on my tan, and had gotten to know some of the regular little darlings, that I'd soon see everyday, because my pool was their parents' daytime dumping ground.

I always bragged about how well I got along with children. I got along so well, that my throat was hoarse every night from screaming, "Walk, don't run," and "It's too shallow to dive." Don't think I just screamed at the chlorine diluting monsters, I answered every question from "What's that..." to "How come..."

If I was ever nice to one of the little splashers, it was rumored that I was their mom. I'm glad to know that I look old enough to be the mother of an eight-year old, especially after getting my I.D. rejected at a club.

Remember my mention of that golden tan? Well, after a couple of weeks, I developed a heat rash that covered my skin for the remainder of the summer. I was so fortunate to work outside, since it was the hottest summer since 1942.

The much-worth-the-barely-over-minimum-wage job finally ended, and I'm still in one piece and have half my sanity left. Next summer I'll try applying at a library or a fishing dock, or some other peaceful place.

I'm sure in the future, when I really am a mom, and have just left the hospital for sun cancer treatments, I'll look back at this summer job and realize that it wasn't all that bad. I'll just count my blessings that some of those kids, who would now probably identify me as a grandma, aren't mine.

Student from India likes snow, "The Twist"

By Theresa Miller

If while walking to classes this semester you notice a girl who is wearing a smile bigger than life, you are probably approaching Gauri Kulkarni.

Gauri, a pre-pharmacy student, moved from Poona, India to the United States in November. This is her second semester at SWOSU. Her father who is a physician with a practice in Watonga decided he wanted to make a home for his family in the U.S. almost two years ago.

Gauri stated that her most fascinating experience since coming to the U.S. was during the winter of last year when she saw falling snow for the first time.

When Gauri first left India all she could bring with her were two suitcases. She had to leave many cherished possessions because there wasn't enough room on the plane for them. At first the move was very hard for her.

She missed her country, her culture, her relatives and friends. She had spent her life there--all 17 years--and many things were different here.

She said most people at SWOSU have been helpful and understanding to her. She has now adjusted to this culture and likes it here.

Some of the things that she

likes are rock-n-roll music, dancing to Chubby Checker's "The Twist" and pizza. What she likes most about Americans is their striving for success.

She said that she will have more of an opportunity to study here than if she had stayed in India.

Gauri's home city is much like New York City. She describes it as crowded with busy streets. She was pleased to find a different situation here. She likes the peacefulness of SWOSU's campus.

Religion plays an important role in people's lives in India where all religions are treated equally with respect. What she finds hardest to accept about the U.S. are the high rate of alcohol and drug use and the casualness of sex.

May Day, May Day!

By Jenny Lellman

Why do we observe Labor Day? Everyone has their own interpretations of the holiday. To some it is a day out of school to others a chance to catch some rays at the lake and to many a reason to throw wild parties.

Labor Day, otherwise known as May Day, has a long international tradition of holiday and festivity associated with the arrival of spring, but from 1890, May Day became the international laborer movement's special day.

It was determined by the fact that the American Federation of Laborers chose May first, 1890 as the date to re-open its struggle for the eight-hour work day. In the U.S., the well-to-do saw its observance as un-American and subversive, so instead supported Labor Day as an acceptable "home-grown" alternative to May Day.

In France, May Day offered an opportunity for workers to have their own fourth of July celebration. In Europe, a widespread superstition held that washing the face in the May Day morning dew would beautify the skin.

FCA

By Tammi-J Heilaman

Todd Boyd, High School-College Relations Assistant Director, has been selected as the new sponsor for Fellowship of Christian Athletes. Boyd replaces Sherrie Sharp who resigned the sponsorship due to other professional obligations, one being the newly formed Speech Club.

Boyd holds both bachelors and masters degrees from SWOSU. When asked why he was interested in sponsoring the organization, he replied, "I felt, like the officers of FCA, that there are more students interested than there are involved."

While in highschool in Watonga, Boyd served as president of the local chapter. He said that he encourages, "...a drive toward more memberships and letting people know that it's not just an athletic membership. I plan to work as a support and as an assistant to the officers in recruiting and meetings."

Thirty students attended the first meeting, a pizzaparty. John Jenson, president, said, "I want to create an environment in which everyone will feel welcome. I want to make it a fun Christian experience with lots of Jello for everyone. Jenson, a biology major, is a center offensive lineman for the Bulldogs.

Troy Appling will serve as vice president, Heidi Salmon, secretary, and Tammi-J Heilaman, treasurer.

A slam-dunk contest and volleyball tournament are being planned. Fund raisers include the recently held car wash and T-shirt sale. Club officers may be contacted by those desiring to purchase a shirt.

German Club

By Brad Church

Students interested in becoming members of Southwestern's German Club met at Means Park recently. Those students were among others interested in various language arts clubs and the respective instructors and representatives for each.

Dr. Clarence Sturm, faculty advisor, told about German Club. He stated that there will be an organizational meeting held soon. Thereafter, a meeting will be held monthly. All interested students are encouraged to attend this organizational meeting, as officers for the new year will be elected.

Watermelon and cookies were provided along with drinks for the students, instructors and representatives.

Wesley Foundation

By Michelle Green

Wesley on Wednesday (W.O.W.) is scheduled at 7:00 p.m. weekly. An invitation to attend is extended to all students.

A student-faculty luncheon was held last week.

History Club

History Club will sponsor a film series during the fall semester.

According to Doc Dorrell of the SWOSU history club, many films will be shown throughout the semester.

The films will be shown on Tuesday nights at 6:30 p.m. in the library auditorium. The films are free and everyone is invited to attend.

The club will also be sponsoring a comedy marathon Thursday, October 11, from 10 a.m.-10 p.m. Four films will be shown including "Monty Python & the Holy Grail," "1941," "The Dictator" and "The Magic Christain".

Films to be shown include: September 18--"Merry Christmas, Mr. Lawrence"; September 25--"Threads"; October 2--"Easy Rider"; October 9--"Au Revoir, Les Enfants"; and October 23--"The Grapes of Wrath".

Also, October 30--"Dry White Season"; November 6--"The Battle of Algiers"; November 13--"Metropolis"; November 27--"Hotel Terminus"; and December 4--"Under the Volcano".

Editor's note: Officers and/or sponsors of organizations are invited to phone or mail notices of meetings and special events to The Southwestern. We will attempt to help you advise our readers. Phone 774-3735 or mail to Journalism Department, S-117, SWOSU.

From serious inquiry to leisurely browsing Library serves students

By Tracey L. Mitchell

Whether they like it or not, the one building on campus few students can escape visiting at least once this semester is the Al Harris Library. Many students quake at the thought, but they probably will have to research a paper, speech, or project for a class.

The library is open from 7:30 a.m. until 10 p.m. every weekday except Friday when it closes at 5 p.m. On the weekends, students can use its facilities Saturdays from 2 to 5 p.m., and Sundays 5 to 10 p.m.

Students will find a large selection of major magazine, journal, and newspaper titles. Several indexes, including some on computer databases, exist to help researchers locate articles. While periodicals cannot be checked out, the first floor has a number of copy machines that students can use. Each copy costs 10 cents.

The library has many of its periodicals on microfiche and microfilm. Using these can save a researcher a great deal of time. The microform machines which read these also make copies; however, they take only dimes. The library staff can provide change for only one dollar at a time.

College catalogs and phone books for Oklahoma and major metro areas can be found on microfiche as well.

The second floor contains books on almost any subject. The card catalog, which has been moved to the left side of the entrance, will help you find what you need. Reserved materials and some reference books are kept behind the check-out desk; the other reference books are located in the northeast corner on the first floor.

If the library does not have a much needed book or article, the inter-library loan department can order it from another library.

Some people might want to go to the library for reasons other than researching a topic. They can browse through the rack of current magazines or newspapers near the card catalog. Or they may want to check out the library's fiction section in the southeast corner on the first floor. It contains popular fiction by authors such as Stephen King, as well as classics, and science fiction.

If a snack, Coke, or a cigarette becomes necessary while in the library, students can go to the lounge located in the basement. Food, drink, and smoking are prohibited elsewhere in the building.

For the serious scholar, the second floor provides many quiet places to study.

The library no longer provides typewriters to students, but anyone needing one can make arrangements with the secretary in MB209 to use one in the businesses lab for a $5 charge.

The many services of the Al Harris Library will be expanded later this semester when a new computer system is installed. A description of this service will be provided in a later issue.

Let me introduce myself. I'm Kristi, your new columnist. I hope you'll find this column both interesting and entertaining. My goal is to make you think and to make you laugh.

A new semester has started and everyone is getting back into the swing of college life...whatever the definition of college life is. New friends are being made and old acquaintances. The new college things have started happening again—the all-night parties, the all-night cram sessions for the BIG exams, the relationships, the famous lie to Mom, "Yes, I'm eating right and getting enough sleep," and my favorite, "Send more money."

I hope to have you here each week.

Rodeo teams ready for new season

Steve Collier
Sports Editor

The Southwestern rodeo teams are gearing up for a good year of rodeo action.

Fifty athletes showed up at the first meeting. "We have more girls than we have ever had," said Don Mitchell, head rodeo coach.

There will be 18 women out for the rodeo team this year. Ten girls are returning from last year's team, four of whom went to the national finals.

Five new members of the team are transfers, and all except one are eligible first semester. Two true freshmen (first year of college eligibility) will be used on this year's team.

The women's team will include 14 barrel racers, 10 goat tiers, nine breakaway ropers, and three will enter the team roping competition.

The girls' strong point will be the barrels and when asked what the the womens' weak point was Mitchell commented, "There is really no weak point. We have a good balanced situation."

The Lady Bulldogs look to be contenders for the national championship this season.

The team will consist of six seniors: Teresa Avery, Ponca; City: Staci Baber, Devol; Jackie Barnard, Leedey; Debra Green, Carnegie; Annesa Musil, Guthrie; Jami Radacy, Lookeba; and Kim Stamps, Moore.

The mens' team will include six bareback riders, 13 calf ropers, five bull riders, three saddle bronc riders, eight steer wrestlers, and 14 calf ropers.

When asked about to describe the outlook on the team this year, Mitchell commented, "I think definitely we will be strongest in the steer wrestling. Our team roping should be improved this year, that was a disappointment last year."

Appling ready for new season

Troy is an ordinary guy with an extraordinary God

by Amber Taylor

Looking forward to another football season is one of the Bulldog's finest, Troy Appling. Troy is 6'1" and comes back into the season ten pounds tougher at 185.

He is a junior majoring in finance and minoring in management. Mr. Appling said he prepared for the season by lifting and running while he was at home this summer. "Practice has really gone good so far," Troy says, but he is ready to mark his helmet with other colors rather than those for his teammates.

Due to a serious injury, and unable to play the ending of last season, Appling was still able to make a contribution to the team. Using his years of football experience he identified areas needing improvement. He said, "The team has really improved on many of their past weaknesses, and I am really excited to begin the season." His only concern is that the defense lost many good players, but says the remaining Bulldog defense still has the determination to move on.

The same determination Appling shows towards football is also evident in his spiritual and academic life.

He believes very strongly that all of his talents come from God. He doesn't like to boast or brag about the things he can do, but always keeps the philosophy that he is an ordinary guy with an extraordinary God.

Outside of school, Appling enjoys spending time with his girlfriend Heidi. Troy really appreciates all of the support from the fans, and would like to encourage everyone to attend the games this season.

Bulldogs defeated twice

by Steve Collier

The Bulldogs new wide-open offense has made the games more interseting to watch, but has not helped them post a victory in their first two contest.

In the Arkansas Tech match-up the Dawgs jumped ahead with 8:24 left in the first quarter on a fieldgoal by Phil Cobb.

With 6:48 left to go in the first Karl Kuhn caught a 19 yard pass from Mike Turiace and Eric Markle kicked the extra point to put Arkansas Tech ahead 7-3.

The Bulldogs started the second quarter off with a scoring play that covered 10 yards on a pass from Hetrick to Nathen Robinson. Cobb put the extra point through to make the score 10-7.

Late in the first half Turiace completed a pass to Paul Wood from 26 yards out to put Tech ahead 14-10 after the extra point from Markle.

Arkansas Tech held this lead the second half and scored on a 65 yard run late in the game.

The Bulldogs rushed 36 times for 123 yards and one touchdown. Hetricks passing consisted of 14 completions on 36 attempts and no interceptions. Hetrick had 95 yards in the air.

Larry Talbott punted eight times for an average of 44.5 yards.

Mark Williams led the Dawgs running attack with 14 carries for 70 yards and Nathen Robinson led reciev-ers with three catches for 46 yards.

Brandin Beers led the Dawgs defensive charge with seven tackles and two broken up passes.

The Ouachita Baptist game was a heartbreaking loss for the Dawgs.

After going down 7-0 early in the first quarter, the Dawgs ran off three scoring drives.

The scoring came on a 19 yard run by Hetrick, a six yard pass from Marc Williams, tailback turned pas-ser, to Scott Boyd, and a long 72 yard pass from Hetrick to Eric Royal. All the extra points were made by Phil Cobb, and the Dawgs went ahead 21-7 going into halftime.

Ouachita scored three times in the second half without making a point after to make the score 25-21.

The Bulldogs failed to score in the second half.

The Dawgs rushed 30 times for 102 yards. The ground attack was led by Eric Royal with 61 total yards.

Hetric was seven for 13 in the passing department with three interceptions and one touchdown for 154 yards total passing.

Brent Thorton led the Dawgs defensive charge with 12 tackles. Eight of those tackles were unassisted.

 nesses of the team, Mitchell stated, "(Our) obvious weakness is in the bronc riding." Two bronc riding recruits did not attend Southwestern this season. One of these athletes went to the pros and the other attended another university. "We are going to look at some seniors for some strength. I think Sean Wright and Clyde Heinz, (who) have both been to the finals three previous times, will be our anchor people," Mitchell said. Joe King will become eligible second semester, and should improve the bronc riding. King won the Ozark region at Southwest Missouri State.

Highlight's new staff

By Sherrana Sadler

In this, our first edition of the Sayre Campus Highlights, we will introduce you to the fall staff of the paper. The paper is again under the direction of Mrs. Judy Haught, who also teaches Fundamentals of English, Grammar and Composition I, and Spanish.

Sherrana Sadler is from Cheyenne, and this is her third semester here at SWOSU. She is a divorced mother of three, and her hobbies include sunbathing, writing, and chasing her children. She plans to go on to Central State University in Edmond upon graduation here to pursue her degree in public relations.

Kim Region is from Yukon, Oklahoma, where she graduated from Yukon High School but is now living in Elk City with her father. While living in Yukon, she was a part-time model with an agency in Oklahoma City. She now plans on going into the advertising business where entertainment news will be her speciality.

Kurtis Ivey graduated from Hammon High School in 1990 and now lives in Elk City where he is employed at the Grandview Assembly of God Church as a youth pastor. He will transfer to Waxahachie, Texas, where he will become a minister. He openly admits to having forty-five children that he enjoys getting crazy with sometimes.

Stephen Spurlin lives in Reydon, but he grew up in Alaska where he graduated from Susitna Valley High School. He is married and has three children. His hobbies include most outdoor activities, carpentry, reading and running. He is a history major and plans on transferring to Weatherford upon graduating from here.

Michael Ray is probably the most unique member of our staff family. He is also from Elk City but graduated from Amarillo Christian High School. He loves to play tennis, swims, and is an avid sun-worshipper. He is planning on a major in the mass communication field. He would like to be an entertainment reporter some day. We, the staff, found out a very interesting fact about Michael; he went out with a model from Amarillo the other day. He says they are just friends, but we'll keep you advised.

We would like the student body and special groups to know that if you have anything you would like in the paper, contact us and we will make every effort to see that it gets in the paper. Have a wonderful Fall Semester!!!

New faculty

By Sherrana Sadler

I had the distinct pleasure of interviewing our two new faculty members the other day, and what I found out was quite amazing. Neither one of them ever planned on teaching when they graduated from college, and both are rookies of sorts.

Mr. Scott Froenberger was actually a used car salesman until he met Mr. Roberts while trying to sell him a car. Mr. Roberts needed an adjunct teacher, and Mr. Froenberger had the qualifications. It wasn't until Mr. Froenberger started teaching at night that he decided it was something he wanted to do.

He is a devoted family man with two sons and admits they take up much of his time. When he does have free time however, he likes to garden and enjoys running. He is truly a man with definite views on life. I think anyone who talks with him will agree he is an asset to the school.

Mrs. Davis was a little easier to interview because I knew her from high school. She is a definite team player and shows how everyone in her classes are a team. If someone knows an easier way to solve a problem, she will adhere to it. She is a graduate from Sayre High School and has worked in laboratories in several different states. She admits that she and her husband were really homesick for Oklahoma now that they have a child. "Having a child really makes you know how important all family can be. I want Cade to know his grandparents and for them to know him." She is a caring person to have on the staff here at SWOSU.

To vote or not

By Belinda Jeffers

Once again the time has come for Americans to stand up and let their opinions count. Unfortunately less than half of American citizens will execute their rights. Our founding fathers would be disappointed in the lack of political participation.

For years women and minorities had to fight to obtain the right to vote. Now every citizen over the age of 18 possess that basic right, few use it.

When asked about non-voting, most people blame forgetfulness. Voting should be placed higher on everyone's priority list.

Other non-voters claim they do not have enough information to make an educated vote. There are enough candidates running around and enough pamphlets being handed out that, with little effort, any person can make an intelligent choice.

Some non-participants claim their vote would make little or no impact upon the outcome of the election. This opinion has no validity. Every single vote is tallied.

There really is not a solid reason for not voting. Ann Julian, a Sayre campus student, sums it up in the following statement: "I have voted ever since I was able." "Voting is a privilege. It is an expression of thoughts. If we do not vote, we dare not complain."

NEW FACULTY members: Scott Froenberger and Tommye Davis.

Dean's message

Welcome from the Dean's Office! It looks like we are off to another great school year. We have enrolled 559 students, which is a record number.

I hope your time on campus is a very meaningful and positive experience. As always, my office is always open to serve you the student.

Don Roberts, Dean

Wall goes down

Events around us often affect us in many ways. One of the recent changes on the Sayre campus was the removal of the wall between the smoking and non-smoking sections of the student center.

Students wishing to eat in a smoke-free area should use one of the other lounge areas to eat their lunches. There is one lounge in the classroom building, and two are located in Mackey Hall.

Rege's rentals

Listed are some home video rentals, I, Kim Region (Rege), or the staff have seen, and I am confident in suggesting these video rentals to our readers.

1. Born on the Fourth of July
2. Internal Affairs
3. Tango and Cash
4. Music Box
5. The Bear
6. Joe vs. the Volcano
7. Next of Kin
8. Do the Right Thing
9. Sea of Love
10. Lethal Weapon II

Grab some popcorn, a coke, and a smile — Kick back and enjoy!

In future articles I will be reviewing, listing, and critiquing video rentals, music videos, current movies, etc....I will appreciate any input or opinions that you might have. Please feel free to contact me anytime.
